DETAILED ACTION

This communication is in response to the documents dated 1/20/04. Claims 1-18 are pending in the application. Claims 1, 7, and 13 are independent claims.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1-18 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Sonderegger et al. (US 5692129), and further in view of Agarwal et al. (6816853).

As per claim 1, Sonderegger et al. teach identifying a partition identifier in accordance with the partitioning schema – col. 6, line 61 to col. 7, line 7; col. 9, lines 37-50; “control the access of particular network users or groups of users to particular network resources” – col. 2, lines 56-57. However, Sonderegger et al. do not explicitly disclose selecting the partition identifier based upon the contents of the query and the database catalog information; executing the query against the identified partition. Agarwal et al. teach queries against partitioned a database table, indexing and pruning – col. 2, last paragraph; col. 4, line 37 to col. 5, line 20. Thus, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to combine Sonderegger et al.'s teaching with Agarwal et al.'s teaching to effectively search the database portion/partition that is most appropriate to the users' queries in order to save time and operation costs.

As per claims 2-3, Sonderegger et al. do not teach database catalog. However, Agarwal et al. teach local index for each partition – fig. 2; global index: fig. 3c; col. 4, lines 37-54. Thus, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to combine Sonderegger et al.'s teaching with Agarwal et al.'s teaching to effectively search the database portion/partition that is most appropriate to the users' queries in order to save time and operation costs.

As per claims 4-5, Sonderegger et al. do not teach a partition identifier; executing the query based upon the identified partition identifier. Agarwal et al. teach partition identifiers and executing queries – col. 4, lines 37-54; col. 6, line 50 to col. 7, line 48.

As per claim 6, Agarwal et al. teach forwarding the identified partition identifier to a client application requesting table data – col. 4, lines 37 to col. 5, line 65.

Claims 7-18 claim the same subject matter as of claims 1-6 and are rejected based on the same ground of rejection.
